

YORK UNIVERSITY, School of Kinesiology and Health Science, Faculty of Health, Toronto, Ontario

The School of Kinesiology and Health Science, York University, invites highly qualified candidates to apply for professorial stream tenure-track appointment in Sport Psychology: Sport Participation and Performance at the Assistant Professor level, to commence July 1, 2021. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

A PhD in Kinesiology, Psychology or a related field is required, with a demonstrated promise of excellence in research and in teaching.

Applicants should have a clearly articulated program of research and specialize in areas such as psychology of sport performance, and /or psychological predictors of sport engagement, and/or sport as an avenue for the development of psychological and mental health outcomes. This individual will strategically complement our current core of sport and exercise psychology faculty and will have the opportunity to develop community-based research programs and multi-disciplinary interactions with researchers in the School of Kinesiology and Health Science. Relevant post-doctoral training is expected.

The successful candidate will be expected to engage in outstanding, innovative, and, as appropriate, external funded research at the highest level.

Candidates must provide evidence or promise of research excellence of a recognized international calibre as demonstrated in: the research statement; a record of publications (or forthcoming publications) with significant journals in the field; presentations at major conferences; awards and accolades; and strong recommendations from referees of high standing.

The position will involve graduate teaching and supervision, as well as undergraduate teaching and the successful candidate must be suitable for prompt appointment to the Faculty of Graduate Studies.

Evidence or promise of excellence in teaching will be provided through: the teaching statement; teaching accomplishments and pedagogical innovations including in high priority areas such as experiential education and technology enhanced learning; teaching evaluations; and strong letters of reference.
