2018 Dorothy Hill Memorial Symposium Presenters

Eric Rossen, PhD, NCSP, is a nationally certified school psychologist and licensed psychologist in Maryland. He has experience working in public schools as well as in independent practice, and is currently the director of professional development and standards for the National Association of School Psychologists (NASP). Dr. Rossen has published several manuscripts and presented nationally on issues related to crisis response, trauma, and school safety. Dr. Rossen is co-editor of Supporting and Educating Traumatized Students: A Guide for School-Based Professionals from Oxford University Press. He also has served as a college instructor and adjunct faculty at the University of Missouri and Prince George's Community College in Maryland.

Lisa Weed Phifer, D.Ed., NCSP is a a Nationally Certified School Psychologist who works in a large, diverse school system outside Washington, DC. She recently published a clinician's workbook entitled the CBT Toolbox for Children and Adolescents and a parent companion workbook that is currently in press. She has published additional manuscripts, presented nationally, and has developed e-learning programs for educators to address the impact of trauma on students' social, emotional and educational growth. Her most rewarding role is with her family, spending time with her husband and daughter.
